Happy Nurses Week!

Join BHMT in celebrating the important role nurses play in healthcare during National Nurses Week (May 6-12, 2017). Each year, we recognize the invaluable work that nurses do. The official theme for 2017 is "Nursing: the Balance of Mind, Body, and Spirit" which celebrates nurses like you who lead the charge for health and wellness.

Nurses are the first line of defense in the prevention of illness and injury, and they champion and promote the health of our nation. As nurses, you deserve special recognition for keeping the principles of ethical practice in mind, and in honor of your dedicated service, we thank you for your continued efforts in improving patient outcomes in the ever-evolving field of primary care.

The pace and intensity of work are on the rise. Nurses face pressure from managing increasingly complex populations while addressing expanding regulatory burdens amid fiscal and human resource constraints. Novice nurses report feeling overwhelmed and are unprepared to cope with the complex psychological, social, and spiritual care needs of their patients. Nurse leaders are challenged to provide rapid yet well-thought-out decisions in morally complex work environments.

Regardless of role, new expectations and challenging working environments can place health care professionals at high risk of burnout and stress-related sickness. This is cause for concern as there is a direct and adverse relationship between negative stress and productivity and engagement in the workplace.

How can you develop resilience and stay motivated in the face of constantly increasing demands and infuse meaning and joy into your practice? Tune into this special live event as experts share the latest neuroscience, behavioral and occupational research and strategies.

Digital Fluency Pilot Coming This June—Be Ready for The Future!

Now is your chance to get a jump start on preparing for the work of the future. Did you know that Digital Fluency has been identified by Kaiser Permanente as one of the 4 Critical Skills? Being Digitally Fluent means being comfortable working in the increasingly technological environment that is today's healthcare. It doesn't mean that you need to be an expert, it just means that you can adapt to the rapid changes that are happening in your workplace.

The Digital Fluency Training Program will give you a broadened understanding on how:

- Technology is embedded in our everyday work lives.
- It helps us provide excellent care to our members.
- To learn even more.

We understand that your time is very valuable which is why we've provided this training completely online. You can access all 4 modules, including "Mobile Devices in Healthcare" and "The Power of Data" at home or on the go. Also, participants in this pilot program will receive a Certificate of Completion once the training has been completed.

If you're ready to build your success in this digital age, sign up to be a part of the pilot program today!

3 Tips for Career Development

Network Professionally! Your career requires you to network, and in today's marketplace, you must be more active than ever, but networking requires planning—an approach that is strategic and measurable, that you can learn from each time you introduce yourself to a new crowd or reacquaint yourself with an old one.

Here are 3 tips on how to get started:

- Make significant connections by creating a LinkedIn account.
- Consider a personal webpage to showcase all your accomplishments, work experiences, and more! Not sure where to go? Wix.com has great examples and is a FREE resource.

- When creating a cover letter, always say things that your resume can't—make it personal but focus on your professional highlights and accomplishments.

Networking is both an art and a science, but in the end, it should be fun, exciting, and a rewarding approach to advancement. The more you network, the more you will learn, and if you're always learning, you are growing and thus developing yourself especially your interpersonal communication skills. Once you have become a pro at networking, you can begin to share your experiences, tips, and tricks with others, and always remember, your regional BHMT Career Counselor is there to help! Presented by Martha Edwards, NCAL BHMT Career Counselor.

NCAL Billing Specialist Shows How Change Can Be Beneficial

Current Position: Lead Billing Specialist, Regional Billing Office, Northern California

Her Goal: To become a Project Manager

How BHMT Helped: BHMT helped through the use of the Project Management Certificate Program

Vilma Castillo began utilizing the Ben Hudnall Memorial Trust back in 2012 with the use of a Medical Terminology course, but working as a Lead Billing Specialist, she wanted to take her career even further, so she enrolled in the Project Management Certificate Program through UC Berkeley Extension.

"I am very thankful for the opportunity to improve my career," she says, "It is a privilege to be a part of the program."

Vilma is now almost done and has noticed that she has been able to improve her skills in process analysis as supervisor also played a key role in her decision to pursue the program. With their encouragement, she felt like she was ready to take the next step in her career development.

Although Vilma has gotten a lot of value out of the program, she realizes that you must have “self-discipline” and “determination” in order to be successful.

Currently, she is looking for a position that will make use of her skills in Project Management within Kaiser Permanente, but in the meantime, she is pleased to use the skills she’s learned in her role.

“I am thankful for the partnership between KP and BHMT,” she says, “I have learned more as regards to my work than I have ever before.”

Congratulations, Vilma!
